- * ☐ Why would Lynn want to get the source code if he has not used it to even see if it works?
- * ☐ It is a huge waste of time for him to handle source code that is not working

Subject: Re: DATA! DATA! DATA!

I want to go ahead and copyright the actual code as well as a presentation of the program or service the program performs because there are trade secrets involved in the process of capturing the names and addresses of mineral owners.

If you printed the source code into a word doc, how many pages would it require? We will have to print all of <50 pages. If >50 pages, we print the first or last 25 pages and submit with the application.

You need to do a visual presentation of what the program can do without revealing how the program can do it. Ideas?
