I would like to discuss this over the telephone.

I will assume that you have read the police reports and the documents provided today.

I do have some of the bodycam given to me before it was being sent to "legal" for evaluation. I would like a copy of that evaluation.

The audit logs for the bodycam certainly do exist and have not been provided, but the bodycam was deleted after the evaluation.

I would also like to know to whom I need to speak to see if they want to continue forward with the trespassing case.

I hope to resolve this but will pursue every legal option in addition to media and social media if not.

I hope to have your response soon.

What does that mean? Who handles whether the university wants to pursue a trespassing case where the officers tamper with evidence and engage in official misconduct and grand theft?

The audit logs have been requested nearly three months ago and the bodycam has been deleted, AFTER the property manager started that it was going to legal.

The trespassing case will go through normal channels. My response (below) has nothing to do with that. The FSU Office of the General Counsel is not involved in the trespassing case.

So does Florida State wish to pursue the trespassing case?

Mr. Mason – I'm sorry to hear about your troubles.

To clarify, the Florida State University (FSU) Office of the General Counsel does not and cannot represent individuals. Our one and only client is the FSU Board of Trustees, acting for and on behalf of the University as an institution. So, the FSU Office of the General Counsel cannot assist you with your situation.

If you believe a crime has been committed, you may wish to call the police. If you are seeking free or low-cost legal assistance, you can contact Legal Services of North Florida at 850-385-9007 or Legal Aid Foundation of Tallahassee at 850-222-3292. The best of luck to you.

Good morning. I spoke with Heather yesterday and she said she was forwarding my information to the deputy and in guessing that is Ms. Cole's

I began thinking after I got off the phone that is probably is going to take a little time for any one person to get up to speed on it, so I think I'll just forward an email chain from last attorney and point you to where my stuff is on GitHub.

This is all related to a software program that I have written and that was stolen from me. That's actually what I was doing over at FSU to begin with was to consult with someone from the business school and more specifically auditing. My program was the secret weapon for a startup receiving 1.7 billion from the Canadian pension fund.

The people that I'm up against are experienced lawyers and can pull off stuff like this dang it FSU and six attorneys so far. My freedom of association to even speak to the university for academic purposes was summarily taken away with no due process.

Anyway I felt better yesterday then I have in a long time as I someone is at least going to listen to me. It has been devastating to be isolated and abandoned but we can move in the right direction now and I certainly do appreciate your hearing me out.

The files folder has some of the docs but I will be supplementing.

I'm pretty sure it will take more than a day. This is bigger than you might think.

Thanks again for your help.
